Not illustrated. 1921 Excerpt: . . . emphasis is placed upon the school as an institution with regard to the principles of education in a democracy. The general method is by lectures, recitations, and reports. Same course given during regular year, with same credit. Average credit, 3 hours. Method. --There is a decided tendency to do away with general method, as such, and incorporate it in subject methods and educational psychology. The aim of the course is to offer the fundamental principles in the teaching process and their relation to the learning process. The most common topics are a study of the formal steps of the recitation, the problem of how to study and teaching how to study, the selection and arrangement of subject-matter, methods of securing interest, individual attention, elements of skill and drill, development, and appreciation. Lesson plans, observation, and demonstration are required. There is the same work in all schools, and the same course is given during regular session as during the summer. Average credit, 4 hours. Method Subjects. --This group embraces methods in almost the entire field of elementary and high-school subjects. Both suggestive and demonstrative method is offered in all summer courses along with the content matter. The most common courses are in reading, arithmetic, language, grammar, literature, history, geography, nature study, drawing, construction work, penmanship, story-telling and child literature, dramatization, elementary science, folk dancing and games, physiology and hygiene, geometry, and library. The courses deal with the best methods of presenting the respective subjects, with emphasis on...
